Chapter 4, exercise A

A Put your own vowels in this chart, using a set of words such as that given in Table 2.2. Listen to each vowel carefully and try to judge how it sounds relative to the other vowels. You will probably find it best to say each vowel as the middle vowel of a three-member series, with the vowels in the words above and below forming the first and last vowels in the series. In the case of the diphthongs, you should do this with both the beginning and the ending points.
